

CONTENTS

FOREWORD by Frank Bock	9
INTRODUCTION	13
<hr/>
CHAPTER 1
VARIETIES OF ROCK ART	19
Major techniques used to create rock art	22
Pictographs	22
Petroglyphs	29
Cupules	36
Ground Figures (Geoglyphs)	38
Relationship between Technique and Style	41
<hr/>
CHAPTER 2
PREPARATION FOR RECORDING A ROCK ART SITE	49
Locating Site records	49
Regional records and publications	50
Museums, universities, and state offices	51
Rock art societies	51
What if there is no record?	52
Complying with the law	53
Obtaining permission to work	54
Recording on private land	54

Recording on public land	56
Courtesy is the best policy	57
Researching the archaeology and ethnohistory	58

CHAPTER 3

BASIC RECORDING: MAPPING AND RECORD FORMS	61
Recording site locations on a map	62
Road map or hand-drawn map	63
Simple triangulation with a USGS map	66
Universal Transverse Mercator (UTM) system	69
Public land survey: Sections and Townships	72
Other mapping systems	74
Walking the site to locate the rock art	78
Recording standard observations	78
The general setting	80
The archaeological associations	81
The kind of rock on which the rock art is made	81
Making a sketch map of the site	81
The datum point	82
The compass	84
The size scale	84
A sighting level	85
Filling out a site record form	85
The condition of the rock surface	86
Recent (historic) damage	86
Indirect effects which may endanger the rock art	92
Evidence for sequence or changes through time	92

CHAPTER 4

BASIC RECORDING: PHOTOGRAPHS AND DRAWINGS	97
Photographing the rock art site	97
Photographic equipment	99
The camera	99
Color film	101
Black-and-white film	103
Lenses	105

Filters	105
Tripod	106
Lighting	107
Reflectors	108
Flash photography	109
Night photography	110
Making the photographic records	111
Establishing shots	111
Bracketing the exposure	115
Identifiers in the photograph	115
Drawing the rock art elements	121
Aids which simplify the drawing process	131
String grid	131
Modifications to the rock art to make a record possible	140
Chalking	140
Water to enhance paintings	141
Removing soil and vegetation from the art	144

CHAPTER 5
ADDITIONAL RECORDING TECHNIQUES	149
Tracings	150
Rubbings	153
Aluminum foil impressions	156

CHAPTER 6
INTERPRETATIONS AND DATING	159
Interpreting rock art	159
Superficial and false interpretations	159
Ethnographic and historic accounts	161
Indirect interpretation	164
Alternative interpretations	165
Symbolism	170
Dating rock art	172
Elements in the rock art itself	173
Associational dates	175
Radiocarbon dating	176

Cation-ratio dating	176
Other dating methods	177

CHAPTER 7
SAFEGUARDING THE RECORD	181
Central files and archives	182
Conservation of rock art	184
The record as an valuable historic document	186

REFERENCES	189
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	201
GLOSSARY	203
APPENDIX A
SAMPLE OF A COMPLETED SITE RECORD	211
APPENDIX B
RECORDING FORMS	223
APPENDIX C
EQUIPMENT LIST by Esther Schwartz	230
APPENDIX D
CODE OF ETHICS: AMERICAN ROCK ART RESEARCH ASSOCIATION	233
APPENDIX E
BOCK'S LAWS OF ROCK ART RECORDING by Frank Bock	235
ABOUT THE AUTHORS	239